

Financial Markets Daily

Main drivers for the financial markets today...

- Stock markets negative –with US futures positive–, USD to the upside and government bond yields mixed after president-elect Donald Trump threatened to impose tariffs on all imports from China, Mexico, and Canada
- Specifically, Trump promised that after his inauguration, he will apply new tariffs to his three main trading partners. 25% in the case of Mexico and Canada, conditioned on stopping the flow of illegal drugs and migrants across US borders. For China, he announced an additional 10% to its current tariffs. Canada and China pushed back, with the latter warning that ‘no one will win a trade war’
- On the monetary policy front, focus will be on the Fed’s minutes. Markets will look for signals regarding future guidance, particularly on the pace of the cuts. Meanwhile, Kashkari (Minneapolis) said it is still reasonable to consider another rate cut in December, citing the economy’s resilience. In the Eurozone, ECB Vice President Luis de Guindos said in an interview that more rate reductions are on the way if inflation expectations hold
- On the economic agenda, US figures stand out. Releases include October’s new home sales –with signs of a possible moderation– as well as November’s consumer confidence –expecting an improvement–
- The EU proposed sanctions on several Chinese firms it claims helped Russian companies develop attack drones deployed against Ukraine. The bloc is also considering further restrictions on Russian oil companies. Israel’s security cabinet will meet today to discuss a ceasefire proposal with Hezbollah

Equities

- Negative movements in the main stock markets, reflecting caution among investors as greater trade and political tensions in the U.S. with other countries loom
- In the US, futures anticipate a slightly positive opening with Nasdaq (+0.3%). Europe trades with losses and the Eurostoxx is falling 0.3%, dragged down by the energy sector. In particular, Stellantis shares fall more than 4.0% in France due to concerns of greater trade restrictions by the US, regarding that the company produces vehicles in Mexico. Asia closed mainly with declines, highlighting the Nikkei with -0.9%
- In corporate news, Intel rises more than 1.3% in pre-market after receiving ~US$7.9 billion in federal grants, the largest direct subsidy from a program to boost domestic semiconductor manufacturing

Sovereign fixed income, currencies and commodities

- Mixed balance in sovereign bonds. The 10-year European rates decline 2bps, on average. Meanwhile, the Treasuries' yield curve steepens with gains of 3bps at the short-end and modest losses at the long-end. Yesterday, Mbonos' curve rallied 6bps, with the 10-year benchmark closing at 9.94% (-5bps). However, due to a better performance in Treasuries, the local risk premium rose to 566bps (+7bps)
- Dollar weakens against all G10 currencies, with JPY (+0.7%) as the strongest. In EM, the bias is mixed. The MXN is the second weakest in the group, following RUB (-1.4%). The Mexican peso trades at 20.48 per dollar (-0.9%), offsetting yesterday's gains (+0.6%)
- Crude-oil futures rebound from a day earlier as traders assess the progress on a ceasefire deal between Israel and Hezbollah

Corporate Debt

- Fitch Ratings affirmed the rating of Mexico City and its notes GDFCB 07, GDFECB 12 and CDMXCB 19 at 'AAA(mex)'. CDMX's rating is on the same level to that of the Federal Government, since it assumes, as a direct borrower, all the financing contracted by CDMX, as indicated in article one of the Federal Public Debt Law
- PCR Verum increased Corpovael's (CADU) rating to 'BBB+/M' from 'BBB/M' and revised the outlook to Positive from Stable. The upgrade reflects the decrease in its leverage ratios, now with Debt to EBITDA levels considered adequate and increasing Financial Expense coverage
