Financial Markets Daily

Main drivers for the financial markets today...

- Mixed stock markets, S&P Futures down, government bond yields mixed, and stable USD. Investors continue to digest Powell's hawkish tone as they await labor market data to further recalibrate their bets for Fed funds rates
- Attention on Powell's testimony before the House Financial Services Committee, Barkin's Fed comments and the publication of the Beige Book.
 Later, Canada will have its monetary policy decision, where it is expected to keep its reference rate unchanged at 4.50%
- As for economic figures, the trade balance for January and the JOLTS job openings report for the same month will be released in the US. Consensus estimates a reduction in job openings compared to the previous month, but still at high levels. Likewise, the ADP private employment report for February will be published, where we estimate 200k new jobs, after +106k were posted at the beginning of the year, confirming the strength of the labor market
- In other regions, the final reading for 4Q22 Japan's GDP and consumer prices for February in China will be published. Inflation in the Asian country is estimated at 1.9% a/a from 2.1% previously
