Banxico – 25bps cut in line with our view, keeping a dovish tone

- In line with our forecast Banxico's Governing Board cut the reference rate by 25bps to 10.75% in a split decision. Also consistent with our call, Governor Victoria Rodríguez, Galia Borja, and Omar Mejía supported the move. Irene Espinosa and Jonathan Heath favored leaving it unchanged at 11.00%
- In our view, the tone was dovish, similar to the previous statement. Nevertheless, they acknowledged some relevant changes in the outlook, noting:
  - (1) A slight adjustment in the forward guidance, factoring-in "…the effects of the weakness in economic activity…", which we believe shows greater conviction than in the previous statement;
  - (2) The recognition of core inflation's downward trajectory, especially including the expectation that it will keep declining;
  - (3) The view that shocks that have affected non-core inflation will dissipate in coming quarters; and
  - (4) An apparent increase and change in global risks, acknowledging the new comment about "…greater volatility in international financial markets…" and the elimination of "…tight financial conditions…"
- On inflation forecasts, revisions to the headline were concentrated in immediate quarters and were large in magnitude (see table below). Nevertheless, the timing of the convergence to the target remained in 4Q25. Meanwhile, there was only a limited change to the core (-10bps to 3Q24)
- Considering today's announcement and the statement's language –especially that the forward guidance was unchanged amid a context in which the Fed has turned more accommodative–, we expect more cuts in the remainder of the year. Specifically, the next 25bps reduction would be in September
- We believe the geopolitical backdrop will be more complex in November, particularly due to the US election. Therefore, we keep expecting a pause. Nevertheless, if more favorable conditions materialize relative to our expectations after the event, we could see another cut of the same magnitude in said month. This is not our base case, but we consider that it is an important risk to the downside for the reference rate
- Finally, we expect another 25bps cut in December. As such, the reference rate would end the year at 10.25% (previous: 10.50%)

Guide for investment recommendations.

	Reference
BUY	When the share expected performance is greater than the MEXBOL estimated performance.
HOLD	When the share expected performance is similar to the MEXBOL estimated performance.
SELL	When the share expected performance is lower than the MEXBOL estimated performance.

Even though this document offers a general criterion of investment, we urge readers to seek advice from their own Consultants or Financial Advisors, in order to consider whether any of the values mentioned in this report are in line with their investment goals, risk and financial position.

Determination of Target Prices

For the calculation of estimated target prices for securities, analysts use a combination of methodologies generally accepted among financial analysts, including, but not limited to, multiples analysis, discounted cash flows, sum-of-the-parts or any other method that could be applicable in each specific case according to the current regulation. No guarantee can be given that the target prices calculated for the securities will be achieved by the analysts of Grupo Financiero Banorte S.A.B. C.V, since this depends on a large number of various endogenous and exogenous factors that affect the performance of the issuing company, the environment in which it performs, along with the influence of trends of the stock market, in which it is listed. Moreover, the investor must consider that the price of the securities or instruments can fluctuate against their interest and cause the partial and even total loss of the invested capital.
