Government securities exchange auction today

- The MoF will undertake an exchange transaction of government securities today from 11:00am to 12:00pm (EST)
- The exchange will consider the following securities:
  - Settlement bonds (securities delivered by bidders): Mbonos Dec'23, Sep'24, Dec'24, Mar'25, and Mar'26, as well as Udibonos Nov'23 and Dec'25
  - Target bond (securities received by bidders): Mbonos Sep'26, May'33, Nov'34, and Nov'36, as well as Udibonos Nov'31 and Nov'43
- The settlement date will be on Monday, June 12th
- The total amount offered will be based on the bids received. The clean prices of the securities to be tendered by market participants will be unveiled at the beginning of the auction
- This transaction will help smooth the maturity profile of the Federal Government's debt and also strengthen liquidity of issuances in the secondary market, especially the new 3-year Mbono benchmark (Sep'26) that was auctioned yesterday. In terms of strategy, we reiterate our preference for nominal vs real rates, as the carry embedded in CPI-linked bonds (Udibonos) is not attractive considering inflation's downward trend. Meanwhile, Mbonos began the month with a better performance vs Treasuries, extending May's dynamics. As a result, spreads between these bonds for all terms compressed, with the 10-year reading close to 12-month lows at 511bps
