Financial Markets Daily

Main drivers for the financial markets today...

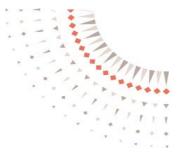

- Stock markets negative, government bond yields and USD up. Markets are cautious after above-consensus UK inflation figures add pressures for the Bank of England. In addition, investors are weighing corporate reports showing a slowdown in demand from the technology sector
- In this context, United Kingdom published March's inflation at 10.1% y/y below the previous 10.4% y/y, but above the 9.8% expected by the consensus. Meanwhile, the final data for inflation in March in the Eurozone remained the same as the preliminary print at 0.9% m/m and 6.9% y/y, respectively
- On the monetary policy front, markets will be watching the release of the Beige Book as well as interventions by Fed members including Goolsbee and Williams, while several participations by some ECB members are also expected. In the evening, China will release 1- and 5-year high-quality lending rates
- Regarding economic figures in other regions, in the US the mortgage applications index fell 8.8% in the week ending April 14, after rising 5.3% in the prior week. On the other hand, in Brazil industrial production figures were released in line with the consensus estimate standing at -0.2% m/m, above the previous -0.3% m/m. With this, the annual variation was -2.4%, below the previous 0.3%, adding to signs of slowdown in the country
